SUNDAY SERVICES. An interesting discourse on the Eastern Question.

In the forenoon Eld. U. Smith of Michigan, spoke on the solution of the Eastern Question in the light of prophecy. He took for his text, Dan. 12:1, 2: "And at that time shall Michael stand up, the great prince which standeth for the children of thy people; and there should be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation even to that same time, and at that time. Thy people shall be delivered, everyone that she'll be found written in the book. And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall await, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt."

Michael was explained to be Christ, and His standing up, the act of his taking his throne, and commencing His everlasting reign. This takes place in connection with the second coming of Christ, the resurrection of the dead, and the end of her all earthly scenes. The connection between this important prophecy and Eastern Question was shown by a brief exposition of the last ten verses of the previous chapter.

Beginning with verse 35 of Daniel 11, it was shown that the period of papal supremacy was brought to view in that verse, from A.D. 538 to A. D. 1798. The four following verses bring to view another power, which as a nation would make a profession of atheism. France did this in the great French Revolution of 1789 - 1798. This was the only nation by whom, and the only time when such an act was ever performed. "They shall divide the land for gain" Verse 39. The large landed estates of the nobility were seized, by the revolutionist divided into small lots and sold to the people. The result was a "gain of 700,000,000 pounds sterling to the national treasury.

In verse 40 two more powers are introduced into the prophecy: "the king of the south" and "the king of the north." The king of the south is Egypt, and the king of the north Turkey, the territory now occupied by these nations constituting the kingdom of the south and the kingdom of the north, from the standpoint of Palestine, on the original division of the empire of Alexander the Great. According to the application of this 40th verse, Egypt was to have a contest with France, and Turkey also to come against France, "at the time of the end," or in 1798. The speaker pointed to history to show that all this was fulfilled in that year.

Turkey, with the help of England and Russia, came off best in this conflict, and the prophet then takes up the history of that power to the end of the chapter. Verse 44, brings to view the Crimean War from 1853 to 1856. The next verse, the last in the chapter, contains two specifications which have not yet been fulfilled: "He shall plan that tabernacles of his palace between the seas in the glorious holy mountain, yet he should come to his end and none shall help him." This is understood to mean that the seat of government shall be moved from Constantinople to the glorious holy mountain, which Bishop Newton interprets to mean Jerusalem.

The speaker thought that the Turkish power was doomed to fall. It may not be accomplished in the present campaign, but it cannot be a great ways in the future. And the downfall of this power is the signal for the standing up of Michael, and the ushering of eternal scenes.

"Sunday morning [August 26, 1877] the weather was still cloudy; but before it was time for the people to assemble, the sun shone forth. Boats and trains poured their living freight upon the ground in thousands. Elder Smith spoke in the morning upon the Eastern Question. The subject was of special interest, and the people listened with the most earnest attention. In the afternoon it was difficult to make my way to the desk through the standing crowd. Upon reaching it, a sea of heads was before me. The mammoth tent was full, and thousands stood outside, making a living wall several feet deep." 4T 279
